Biographical / Historical

The South Windsor Library Association was established in 1886. On Oct. 3, 1898, the South Windsor Public Library was established at the annual town meeting, and on Jan. 24, 1899, the library opened. The South Windsor section was housed in the Baptist Church on Main Street and the Wapping section housed in the Wapping Church. The Sadd Memorial Library was opened in Wapping in 1906 to house the Wapping section. That year, the South Windsor section was housed in the Union School and in 1912 moved to a room in town hall. In 1927, it moved into the newly-constructed Wood Memorial Library. Both sections were combined in one facility in 1970. In 1971, the Friends of Wood Memorial Library, Inc., and independent, non-profit organization, began operations in the Wood Memorial Library building.
