These items were part of a much larger collection of books, most of which had the name "Walter A. Green" inscribed in the front.

The papers consist of a black, leather-bound photo album containing 15 unidentified photographs (tintypes and paper prints, now removed), presumably from the Green family; Woman and Temperance (1883) by Frances E. Willard, inscribed in the front with the name Elmina Sara Barber Green Bissell, who disappeared and was many months later found deceased in woods beyond the Green property; The Poor Doubting Christian (1845) by Thomas Hooker, with an introduction by Edward W. Hooker, Professor at the Theological Institute of East Windsor Hill; inscribed with the name Reuben Green; Te Connecticut Civil Officer (1857) by John M. Niles, inscribed with the name Walter Green; Opening a Chestnut Burr (1874) by Edward Payson Roe. This bears a bookplate in the front: "Wapping Congregational Sabbath School Library"; and a family bible (1857) inscribed with the name Walter R. Green, with family births, deaths, and marriages inscribed inside. and numerous items tipped in.
